WAR SUMMARY.

(Associated Press)

The failure of the Russian attempt to invade Hungary is announced by the German war office in a statement which says that the effort of the Russian army from Przemyśl to force Lupkow and East Dulka passes was unsuccessful. The report says the enemy suffered heavy losses.

Official dispatches from Petrograd concede no such reverse, however but indicate that the Russian advance has been brought virtually to a standstill.

ROUMANIA READY.

Saloniki says the intervention in the war of Roumania appears imminent and that the Roumanian army is well equipped and ready for instant action.

GERMANS CHECK FRENCH.

The operations of the French in Belgium are nearly at a standstill, the Germans apparently having checked the French initiative.

TOTAL BRITISH LOSS.

The total British casualties from the beginning of hostilities to April 1 is 139,347 men, according to an announcement made to the House of Commons today.

FOUR TRAWLERS SEIZED.

Four steam trawlers belonging to a Netherlands firm trying to reach Holland have been seized by German war ships.

SPEED UP SUPPLIES.

An important committee under the chairmanship of Lloyd George has been completed in London to speed up the supply of war munitions.

Zeppelin airships last night made an abortive attempt to damage ship building works along the river Tyne. The damage to property was slight.

Two civilians were injured and in one instance bombs fell near a passenger train.

The British steamship, Plamigan, 218 feet long, was torpedoed and sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Eleven of the crew of twenty-two were saved.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING

In all fairness to both sides of political conflicts, The Telegraph makes it a rule not to publish any article bearing on candidates of issues which is of an argumentative nature that has not been published before on the "eve" of election. Nothing of a political nature bearing on the coming election will be published in Monday night's Telegraph other than articles that have been published before.

INEXPERIENCE IS CAUSE OF DEATH OF MANY PERSONS

MAN LEARNING TO RUN STREET CAR MISTAKES SIGNAL AND RUNS CAR IN FRONT OF TRAIN

(Associated Press.)

Detroit, Mich., April 15.—To the inexperience of J. T. West over, a student motorman, and the unexplained inactivity of his instructor, Richard Vallade, the police charge the death of fourteen persons, ten of them women, who were killed last night in a collision between a street car and a freight train on the tracks of the Detroit & Toledo Iron Railroad company at the western end of the city. Twenty-eight others were injured, four of whom it is believed will die.

The identified dead are Miss Gale George, school teacher, Mrs. Zapak Wagnormas, Louis Kornich, Thomas Salmoni, Odella Bourgeois, Donek Kirkak.

The others were so badly mutilated that identification was almost impossible. The majority of the victims are foreigners.

The car halted as it reached the railroad tracks and the conductor ran ahead to see if the crossing was safe. He saw a string of cars being pushed by an engine approaching, and signalled the motorman to stop. Westover misunderstood the signal and turned on the power. The train struck the car, the roof of which remained intact, but the rest was reduced to splinters. Some of the bodies remained intact, but the rest were torn to bits. Westover and Vallade have been detained by the police on charges of manslaughter.

INVITATIONS OUT FOR MARQUETTE'S

FAMOUS ANNUAL MAY PARTY AND CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN APRIL 28TH.

The Marquette club, one of the oldest social organizations in Dixon, will on Wednesday evening April 28th, entertain its hundreds of friends at its 24th annual concert and May party, at Armory hall, Dixon. Invitations just off the Telegraph press are being sent out by the club committee, composed of J. W. Null, W. J. Kennedy, R. R. Hess, Ed Cahill, Wm. Coffey, John Vaile and A. M. McCrystal.

A program of the concert and dance so accompanies the invitation. The music for the dancing will be furnished by Benson's Chicago orchestra and the concert will include music by this famous orchestra and singing by the Benson Quartette, a group of singers who have won an enviable position in the music world of Chicago. "Good Night Ladies," will not be played until 2 a. m.

These balls given by the Marquette club are famous all over this section of the state and are always attended by large crowds of enjoyment seekers from many miles around. Last year's ball was a brilliant affair but the party this year promises to surpass anything ever given by the club.

ENORMOUS AMOUNT OF WORK

List of Work Requiring Big Pay-

Delight to Town Boosters.

Contractor W. J. McAlpine expects to commence excavations for the new Lee county infirmary early next week providing weather conditions remain favorable. That Dixon is going to be one of the busiest places in this section of the state the coming year is beyond all doubt, for here are some of the improvements to be constructed, all of which will require large forces of men:

Illinois State Epileptic Colony
Lee County Infirmary
Building of Electric Railway to Colony

Pavement of Hazelwood road
Erection of three business blocks and a large number of houses.

In addition to the above it is also possible that some of the pavement of the Lincoln Highway will be undertaken during the year, and there is also a possibility that the Illinois Central railway company will commence the erection of a new bridge here.

Road Experts.

Eight of the superintendents of highways of the fifteen counties which constitute this district met in the supervisors' room at the court house today in response to the call sent out by District Chairman L. B. Neighbour of this city, and a most interesting meeting resulted; all of the visiting officials gaining a great deal of practical knowledge from the papers and discussions. Those present were District Engineer H. E. Surman of Rock Island, and County Superintendents C. R. Marshall of Henderson county, James H. Reed of Henry County, C. E. Schroeder of Jo Daviess county, H. M. Butt of Knox county, L. B. Neighbour of Lee county, Alex. Anderson of Ogle county, O. G. Hevel of Stephenson county, V. N. Taggett of Whiteside county and F. R. Bryant of Bureau county.

The entire meeting was devoted to a discussion of problems which county superintendents meet every day in their work of supervising the construction of all roads in their respective counties; while Division Engineer Surman gave some practical points on what the state highway commission and state highway engineer's office contemplate in the way of improving the roads of the commonwealth.

State Official Compliments Us On Paving Vote

Mayor Brinton Receives Letter From Kern Complimenting Dixon People

The following extract of a letter received by Mayor W. B. Brinton from Fred J. Kern, President of the State Board of Administration, is of interest to Dixon township people, inasmuch as Mr. Kern says some very kind and complimentary things of the voters of this township.

Mr. Kern says:
"I also have your letter of April 7, 1915, in which you inform me regarding the election at which the people of Dixon voted to extend the brick pavement to the front gate of the new institution. This shows the right spirit and proves to me that the City of Dixon is a wide-awake and progressive place and that the people of your city have sense as well as sentiment and I hope and trust sincerely that they may be rewarded ten-fold for the liberality and generosity displayed in making provision for the paved street to the new institution, and furthermore, it convinces me that no mistake was made by the Board of Administration when it selected Dixon as the site for the new Epileptic Colony.

Thanking you for your support and co-operation, I am,

Yours very truly,
FRED J. KERN,
President.

He said the operations of the Japanese warships in Turkey Bay were for salvaging the stranded cruiser Asama.

The Commissioners of Highways of the town of Dixon have formed a plan for the construction of the brick road to the State Epileptic colony, north of the city, which they are confident will give satisfaction and be an economical construction. The plan is to build a twelve foot roadway on each side of the electric car tracks, which will be in the middle. It is proposed to use macadam between the car rails and extending for one foot on each side of the rails, with the brick extending twelve feet beyond on both sides.

SCHMIDT WRITES TO DEFEND CITY ADMINISTRATION

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR TAKES ISSUE WITH OPPONENT RE-GARDING FINANCES.

FIGURES ON FINANCES GIVEN

Commissioner Schmidt Says Recent Article Did Not Give Complete
Facts of Situation.

Commissioner Henry Schmidt has given the following communication in defense of the present administration to the press for publication:

During the enforced absence of Mayor Brinton, I feel it to be my duty, as Acting Mayor, to reply to the recent newspaper article of former Mayor Edwards criticizing the financial record of the present administration.

Under the heading of "Facts in the Case," Mr. Edwards calls attention to the auditor's report at the close of his administration as mayor for the fiscal year commencing April 19th, 1911, showing a balance in favor of the city of $14,930.71, which, by the way, is a mighty small sum with which to run a city like Dixon for a year. This balance was only reached after allowing the city credit for the total city tax due that Spring amounting to $43,369.37. If credit had not been taken for said taxes there would have been a deficit of approximately $28,000.00. He then calls attention to a report of the City Treasurer dated March 1, 1915, headed "Summary of Cash On Hand," which of course, is not, and does not purport to be, a statement of the financial condition of the city. Among other things, it contains no part of the city tax due this spring and amounting to approximately $42,900.00.

A fair comparison of the financial condition of the city at the close of Mr. Edwards' administration, and at present, and one which really presents "the facts in the case," is as follows:

Edwards' Administration for Year
Commencing April 19, 1911:
Resources including city tax
due that spring $33,936.92
Liabilities 19,006.21

Balance in favor of city $14,930.71
Present Administration for Year Commencing April 15, 1915:
Resources, including city
tax due this Spring $62,515.79
Liabilities 11,541.75

Present balance in favor of city $50,974.04
Edwards' balance in favor of city 14,930.71

Balance in favor of present administration $36,043.33

If Mr. Edwards does not intend to allow the present administration credit with the city tax due this spring; then his administration should not be given credit for the city tax in the spring of 1911, when "the facts in the case" would be as follows:

Present Administration for Year Commencing April 15, 1915:
Resources, not including city tax this spring $19,615.79
Liabilities 11,541.75

Balance in favor of city $8,074.04
Edwards' Administration for Year
Commencing April 9, 1911:
The resources of $33,936.92
shown by the auditors' report, less the tax of $43,- 369.37 due that Spring,
creates a liability of $9,432.45
Other liabilities shown by said report 19,006.21

Edwards' administration deficit $28,436.66
To the average person a deficit over $28,000.00 does "sound very much like an empty treasury."

Of course, Local Improvement funds can not be used for any purpose except to pay Local Improvement bonds. They have in no way been taken into consideration in preparing the statements above given, and these funds were only mentioned by the City Treasurer in his report of March 1, 1915, in giving a summary of cash on hand. The items used in making up the above statement are

THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

The Hawaiian Islands are located in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, 2,000 miles from the San Francisco Exposition and occupy so much space in the atlas and the headlines that the reader would naturally imagine them to be of imposing extent.

Nothing is farther from the truth. The Hawaiian archipelago doesn't contain enough land to make a respectable Texas cattle ranch. It is but half the size of Belgium and most of it is devoted exclusively to the production of volcanoes and lava beds. If the city of New York were placed on Oahu, the most important of the islands, several wards would get exceedingly wet at high tide.

Altogether the Hawaiian Islands contain 6500 square miles, divided into eight principal islands. For so small a patch of ground it has contributed mightily to history and tour literature in the last 50 years.

The Hawaiian Islands are noted principally for climate, natives and volcanoes. The climate is so encouraging that anything can be grown and Hawaii is a sort of national hothouse. All tropical products except bananas flourish there and seven steamship lines are kept busy hauling Hawaiian sugar to this country.

Hawaii also contains the largest and one of the best behaved volcanoes on earth, Mauna Loa. This volcano and its mate, Kilauea are over 13,000 feet high and have craters several miles across. They are located on a separate island. If Sicily had done this with Mt. Aetna much trouble would have been saved.

Hawaii is also famous for its natives, who are gentle, ingenious, musical and much more orderly than whites, not having had a real war for many decades. The Hawaiian native is one of the best swimmers in the world and one of the poorest business men. The race has lived on the islands many hundred years and has only accumulated, thus far, about 1,000th of the land and a pair of trousers apiece.

The islands have a population of over 200,000, including 75,000 Japanese, 35,000 natives, 25,000 Portuguese, 15,000 Chinese, 12,000 Germans and enough Americans to run the bunch—several thousand. Honolulu is a fine town of 50,000 people with a baseball league and a United States judge.

The Hawaiian Islands were owned by Queen Liliuokalani but revolted in the early nineties and tried to break into the United States. After being kept on a waiting list for many years they were admitted in 1898. Those American nations who fear the grabbing propensities of Uncle Sam should consider Hawaii's history and make their application early for admission to this great country. It will take them many years to prove their eligibility.

SICK, SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION OR GAS

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" MAKES UPSET STOMACHS FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

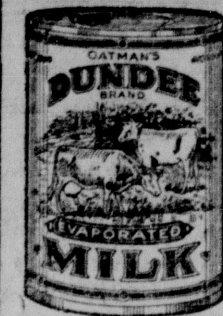

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion, if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only 50 cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Play a Success

A packed house greeted the home talent productions last evening at the Family Theater, when the Glee club of the North Dixon high school gave the beautiful operetta "The Japanese Girl," and the Senior class of 1915 of the N. D. H. S. gave the charming little play, "After the Game."

One of the delightful features of the evening's entertainment was the music provided by the music of the North Dixon High school orchestra. It might be claimed as their initial appearance before the public and the young musicians covered themselves with glory, and reflected great credit as well on the musical director, Mrs. Muriel Phelps, who also had charge of the operetta, "O Hanu San."

The operetta was given first and the stage settings were very beautiful, and the young men of the graduating class need commendation for their efficient assistance in making these so attractive for both the operetta and play.

Miss Kathryn Strong played the accompaniment in the operetta.

The program is again published tonight and all taking part are highly complimented on the successful production of both play and musicale.

The Japanese maidens in the pretty costumes of the land of the cherry blossom made an entrancing picture in the opening scene amid the flowers and the subdued glow from the many lanterns.

Miss Eleanor Coppins, Sue Patrick, and Lucile Mason as the Three American Girls abroad with their governess, Miss Knowall, in the person of Miss Mary Craig proved a charming diversion from the black eyed lassies from Japan.

Misses Harriet Schumm, Vera Thome, Lucile Pearce, Eleanor Coppins, Lucile Mason, Sue Patrick, Mary Craig, all deserve especial mention in the rendition of their parts, and the music of the operetta is light and catchy, but is also quite difficult of rendition. The Japanese girls, forming the chorus were all exceptionally good.

After an intermission of fifteen minutes the play "After the Game," was given.

Miss Belle Read as Nan was natural and unaffected and she could be heard with ease in all parts of the house. Miss Elizabeth Barge as Betty, had a good stage presence and one of the important parts. Miss Harriet Schumm as Polly was entertaining and sprightly and Miss Frances Patrick as Kit was girlish and graceful and spoke her lines distinctly.

Misses Lucile Mason and Mary Craig as Dixie and Trixie, as sophomores, and Misses Flora, Dora, as freshmen were equally entertaining.

Kenneth Church as Jack Morton, also deserves a meed of praise as the halfback on the Varsity team.

The play, a sketch of college life, in a college town was well given, and was one needing diligent study of parts, and the young people taking part in both productions deserve the high praise which is theirs on the successful culmination of much effort. Mrs. Muriel Phelps, Miss Strong, and Miss Gaylord the latter who coached the play are worthy of special mention in training the young people, and also the other teachers and assistants who aided.

The play and operetta were a success and everything transpired smoothly, and those who attended have with them the memory of a delightful and happy evening of innocent and absorbing pleasure.

The guests spent a very pleasant evening in games and music and later departed for their homes, wishing their hostess many more happy celebrations, such as they had just participated in.

WILL "SPARE THE ROD."

An editorial in the Springfield News-Record tells of the order abolishing corporal punishment in the state institutions in Illinois where delinquent and in corrigible children are cared for. There is some criticism of the action on the grounds of the old adage "Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child," but the Telegraph for one would like to go on record as approving the action of the authorities.

There are many ways of punishing a boy or girl that are just as effective as "thrashing" them and we do not like the idea of having a headstrong boy or girl beaten by bull-necked attendants. A stranger whipping a child is an ugly sight. A parent may find occasions when a "spanking" may help a little when everything else has been tried and has failed, but corporal punishment by other than the parent turns into a "beating." The children in these schools are often orphans, or they may be in just as bad a predicament for they are often children whom the parents have been unable to control and have cast them off, or of parents who are unwilling to have the trouble of rearing them, and the little chaps are helpless, alone and defenseless. If their whippings were unmerited they have no recourse. Here is what the Springfield paper says of the subject:

An order, sent out today by the state board of administration, abolishes corporal punishment in the state institutions where delinquent and incorrigible children are cared for. It is an order that will be considered revolutionary, even wrong, by many. "Spare the rod and spoil the child" is advice which still is followed occasionally. Whipping is considered essential in school government in a large majority of the schools of the country.

In these state institutions are the worst boys and girls of the state. They have been rejected by the schools, in many cases given up in despair by the parents, and considered about as bad as possible. But the state board tells heads of the institutions and their subordinates that if they can't manage the wards without punishment, they will have to resign. The best of it is that they will manage them without punishment. It has been done both in this state and others, the "spare the rod" argument notwithstanding.

A NEWSPAPER EDUCATION.

Peoria Star: Three important men have recently made contributions to the new study of the newspaper in the school. All speak emphatically in favor of the newspaper as a factor in teaching. Prof. D. L. Sharp of Boston university says newspapers cannot be kept away from live children and ought not to be. Wm. T. Miller, a teacher in the Boston public schools, outlines a regular system of newspaper, under the direction of parent or teacher or both. He would also make newspaper reading a recognized part of school curriculum.

For after all the newspaper is the best method of education to be found. The world's best writers are found in the pages of a modern newspaper. The editorials are well written, short and to the point, and the local news is dramatic and pithy. The reader of a daily newspaper who follows the actions of the world's happenings is well educated along the broadest lines of life, and it is well that such an education begins early.

There is some talk of putting a concrete base under the brick that will be laid on the Lincoln Highway in Dixon township. Many people feel, however, that as considerable brick has been laid in Dixon for the past twenty years without concrete foundation and it has lasted well and that it would be better to use the old macadam foundation with a sand cushion and make the brick go farther.

How about it? Shall Dixon township's Lincoln Highway be built this year or next? As far as the Telegraph has been able to canvass sentiment, the feeling is that the voters have approved the bond issue this year and want the highway built as soon as possible.

It is so long since we've said anything about garbage that we can scarcely refrain, but perhaps it would be better to wait and see what the new commission proposes to do about the matter.

LOOKING FORWARD.

I often wonder how this globe will struggle on when I cash in, when I put on my long white robe and sleep with cold but peaceful grin. I find it hard to realize that sun and moon and stars will shine, the clouds will drift along the skies, when everlasting sleep is mine. What is the use of keeping up the long procession of the spheres, when I'm beneath the buttercup, with gumby in my eyes and ears? What is the use of dusk or dawn, of starless dark or glaring light, when I from all these scenes am gone, down to a million years of night? Young men will vow the same sweet vows, and maids with beating hearts will hear, beneath the churchyard's maple bows, and reckon not that I'm resting near. And to the altar, side by side up the aisle, the blooming brides of June will go, and bells will ring and damsels smile, and I'll be too blamed dead to know. Ah, well, I've had my share of fun, I've lived and loved and shut the door; and when this little journey's done, I'll go to rest without a roar.

IDENTITY OF BABIES IS LOST

Returning Civilian Prisoners From Germany Bring Pitiable Situation.

Paris, April 15.—Wm. T. Hollingsworth, representative of the Westinghouse interests in France, has returned from Schaffhausen and Zurich, where he has been investigating the conditions of returning civilian prisoners on behalf of the American clearing house for relief.

The most extraordinary point in Mr. Hollingsworth's report of conditions is that the trains bring a hundred babies, a week old and upwards, daily. These are unclothed and are wrapped in fragments of skirts and shawls and unidentified. There is no means of tracing the identity of these babies. Recent mothers returning with children say that they received no medical attention during child birth. Swiss women are supplying baby clothing at the railway stations for these unfortunates. Many of the older children who have arrived also cannot be identified.

SCHMIDT WRITES FOR ADMINISTRATION

the same items used by the auditors in making the statement of April 19, 1911, to which Mr. Edwards refers.

Mr. Edwards is in error when he says that Local Improvement bonds can be called in at any time upon reasonable notice. This can only be done upon sufficient notice given on the date required by law. Such notice was given and $8,000.00 of bonds maturing up to 1919 have been paid since March 1, 1915, the date of the treasurer's said statement. The balance of this fund is made up of various amounts collected from many different improvements. No one improvement has paid into said fund now on hand a sufficient amount of money to retire a bond issued for that particular improvement. As soon as it does so and the law can be complied with, the bond will be paid. Money collected for one improvement cannot legally be used to pay for another. Consequently the best that can be done for the city is to keep the balance of this fund on interest for the benefit of the city, as is now the case. Mr. Edwards says that this fund should have all been used to pay outstanding improvement bonds; is he really seeking to present "the facts in the case," or does he lack information?

Since interest on city bonds has been mentioned, the public may like to know something about the record of the previous administration and the record of the present administration on the subject of collecting interest on public funds in their hands.

Edwards' Administration.

Money borrowed at various times and in various amounts, aggregating . . . $63,500.00
Interest paid on above borrowed money, aggregating . . . 1,109.63
Interest collected for city on public funds . . . None

Present Administration.

Money borrowed . . . None
Interest paid . . . None
Interest collected for city on public funds . . . $2,841.96

Therefore the present administration has saved to the city in this one item of interest $3951.59 over that of Mr. Edwards' administration. Comparatively little improvement work was done during the Edwards administration. Consequently the city's share of this work, when he retired from office, was small, but such as it was it was inherited and has been practically all paid by the present administration. A large amount of Local Improvement work has been done by the present administration, and consequently the city's share for this Local Improvement, completed and now under way, is much larger.

This includes over seven miles of brick paving, four miles of macadamized streets, about one mile of concrete streets and alleys, over two miles of sewers, and one mile of concrete sidewalk. An interesting fact in this connection is that all of said improvements have been obtained for Dixon without any increase in the tax rate, it remaining exactly the same as it was under the Edwards administration.

If Mr. Edwards really desired "to put some of the voters wise to the facts of the case" why didn't he call attention to the above extensive improvements, which are matters of favorable comment wherever Dixon is mentioned? He simply spoke of the cost and never mentioned that anything would be received by the city for the money so expended, leaving the uninformed person to assume FAMILY THEATRE.

The show for the last half of the week at the Family Theatre is composed of the following vaudeville novelties.

Mr. Ned Melroy, late star of "For the Love of Mike," show, in which show he toured all the big cities of the country, will offer his monologue. Nimz, the eccentric violinist, who is said to compare with the best in vaudeville, such as Travoto and Rinaldo. Critics who have seen Mr. Nimz' performance, compare him with these two stars, and in fact, some critics have reported that he is even better than either one of these.

The feature for the four days will be the spectacular scenic production "The Land of Make Believe," in a fantastic fable of Fairyland. One man and seven girls form the cast. The ladies, a bunch of bewitching beauties, are alternatively alluring and attractive and the production provides much fun. There are numerous novelties in this act, amongst them being The Toy-Town Cadets, The House That Jack Built, Dr. Pill and His Nursery Rhymes, and the big novelty at the finish, called At the Dandy Candy Ball. This song introduces all the different makes of confectioneries. From the opening song entitled Play Time which is given by an exceptionally clever chorus effect, to the closing song, "At the Dandy Candy Ball," which also had its surprises. This production is filled with catchy songs, lively dances, pretty girls and the other ingredients which make it a real musical comedy boiled down to a vaude-

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Tonight the Princess' feature is the "Winged Messenger," a Domino drama with Richard Stanton and Elizabeth Burbridge in the leading roles, a story wherein a young man unscrupulous in love, loses the girl. Richard Stanton is reputed to be one of the best actors of the day. Champion Charges Universal Film Company Is Filming Him.

New York, April 15.—Champion Jess Willard filed a suit in the supreme court today for $100,000 damages and for an accounting from the Universal Film company. The complaint states that on Jan. 8 last Willard signed an agreement with the defendant to appear in the film "Jess Willard in the Heart Punch," for which he said he was to receive 25 per cent of all sums received by the film company from the sale or rental of the films and was to have a weekly accounting.

The complaint alleges that in violation of the agreement in order to defeat his rights, the defendant has made sales of the films to concerns affiliated with it at fictitious prices disproportionate to the value of the film.

DR. CRISSMAN SUCCESSFUL.

The following from the Port Huron, Mich., Times-Herald tells of the success Dr. R. M. Crissman is meeting with:

The First Presbyterian church is enjoying the most successful and prosperous period in its history. Sunday morning eighteen new members were received, making eighty since the coming of Dr. Ralph Crissman to the pastorate last fall. At the spring meeting of the Presbytery it will report the largest membership since its organization. The regular services have more than filled the church and extra seats have been necessary to accommodate the congregations. Infant and adult baptism was administered Sunday morning. The temporal and spiritual interests have been gratifying and encouraging to those having the work at heart and the outlook for the future of the church is bright.

that nothing had been received by the city for the money spent.

It is a well known fact that the spirit manifested by Dixon in making said improvements has marked her as one of the most hustling, up-to-date little cities in the Mississippi valley and has contributed, and will continue to contribute, in liberal measure to her material welfare. It is hard to understand why a candidate for mayor of such a city should find fault with matters of such great public benefit.

Any person interested can verify the above statements of accounts by consulting the city records. However, all the records of both administrations should be consulted, not simply a part.

Very respectfully,

HENRY SCHMIDT,
Commissioner of Accounts and Finance, and Acting Mayor.

PEG O' MY HEART

By J. Hartley Manners

A Comedy of Youth Founded by Mr. Manners on His Great Play of the Same Title—Illustrations From Photographs of the Play

Copyright, 1913, by Dodd, Mead & Company

SYNOPSIS.

Frank O'Connell, young Irish patriot, is shot and wounded by British soldiers while making a home rule speech. He is aided by Angela Kingsnorth, an English society girl, who defends him.

Angela takes O'Connell to her brother's home and helps to nurse him. He recovers, and he and the girl become fast friends.

O'Connell names his daughter Margaret and calls her "Peg." O'Connell receives a most important letter from England, which perplexes him.

Peg put up with that just as long as she could. Then one day she opened out on them and astonished them. They could not have been more amazed had a bomb exploded in their midst. The little, timid looking, open eyed, Titian haired girl was a veritable virago. She attacked and belittled and mimicked and berated them. They had talked of her brogue! They should listen to their own nasal utterances, that sounded as if they were speaking with their noses and not with their tongues! Even the teacher did not go unscathed. She came in for an onslaught too. That closed Peg's career as a New York student.

Her father arranged his work so that he could be with her at certain periods of the day and outlined her studies from his own slender stock of knowledge.

One wonderful day they had an addition to their small family. A little, wiry haired, scrubby, melancholy Irish terrier followed O'Connell for miles. He tried to drive him away. The dog would turn and run for a few seconds, and the moment O'Connell would take his eyes off him he would run along and catch him up and wag his over-long tail and look up at O'Connell with his sad eyes. The dog followed him all the way home, and when O'Connell opened the door he ran in. O'Connell had not the heart to turn him out, so he poured out some milk and broke up some dry biscuits for him and then played with him until Peg came home. She liked the little dog at once, and then there O'Connell adopted him and gave him to Peg. He said the dog's face had a look of Michael Quinlan, the Fenian. So Michael he was named, and he took his place in the little home. He became Peg's boon companion. They romped together like children, and they talked to each other and understood each other.

The days flowed quietly on. O'Connell apparently satisfied with his lot. But to Peg's sharp eye all was not well with him. There was a settled melancholy about him whenever she surprised him thinking alone. She thought he was fretting for Ireland and their happy days together and so said nothing.

He was really worrying over Peg's future. He had such a small amount of money put by, and working on a salary it would be long before he could save enough to leave Peg sufficient to carry her on for awhile if "anything happened." There was always that "if anything happened" running in his mind.

CHAPTER IX.

Peg's Future.

ONE day the chance of solving the whole difficulty of Peg's future was placed in O'Connell's hands. But the means were so distasteful to him that he hesitated about even telling her.

He came in unexpectedly in the early afternoon of that day and found a letter waiting for him with an English postmark. Peg had eyed it curiously off and on for hours. She had turned it over and over in her fingers and looked at the curious, angular writing and felt a little cold shiver run up and down her as she found herself wondering who could be writing to her father from England.

When O'Connell walked in and picked the letter up she watched him excitedly. She felt, for some strange reason, that they were going to reach a crisis in their lives when the seal was broken and the contents disclosed. Superstition was strong in Peg, and all that day she had been nervous without reason and excited without cause.

O'Connell read the letter through twice, slowly the first time, quickly the second. A look of bewilderment came across his face as he sat down and stared at the letter in his hand.

"Who is it from at all?" asked Peg very quietly, though she was trembling all through her body.

Her father said nothing. Presently he read it through again. "It's from England, father, isn't it?" queried Peg, pale as a ghost.

"Yes, Peg," answered her father, and his voice sounded hollow and spiritless.

"I didn't know you had friends in England," said Peg, eyeing the letter.

"I haven't," replied her father.

"Then who is it from?" insisted Peg, now all impatience and with a strange fear tugging at her heart.

O'Connell looked up at her as she stood there staring down at him, her big eyes wide open and her lips parted. He took both of her hands in one of his and held them until she seemed to have fallen asleep. She hardly breathed. She knew something was going to happen to them both.

At last O'Connell spoke, and his voice trembled and broke:

"Peg, do you remember one mornin', years an' years ago, when I was goin' in to speak in County Mayo, an' we started in the cart at dawn, an' we traveled for miles an' miles, an' we came to a great big crossin' where the roads divided an' there was no signpost, an' we asked each other which one we should take, an' we couldn't make up our minds, an' I left it to you, an' ye picked a road, an' it brought us out safe and thrue at the spot we were makin' for? Do you remember it, Peg?"

"Faith I do, father. I remember it well. Ye called me yer little guide and said ye'd follow my road the rest of yer life. An' it's many's the laugh we had when I'd take ye wrong some times afterward." She paused. "What makes ye think of that just now, father?"

He did not answer.

"Is it on account o' that letter?" she persisted.

"It is, Peg." He spoke with difficulty, as if the words hurt him to speak. "We've got a great big crossin' place again where the roads branch off, an' I don't know which one to take."

"Are ye goin' to lave it to me again, father?" said Peg.

"That's what I can't make up me mind about, dear, for it may be that ye'll go down one road and me down the other."

"No, father," Peg cried passionately, "that we won't. Whatever the road we'll thravel it together."

"I'll think it out by meself, Peg. Lave me for awhile—alone. I want to think it out by meself—alone."

"If it's separation ye're thinkin' of make up yer mind to one thing—that I'll never lave you. Never!"

"Take Michael out for a spell and come back in half an hour, and in the meanwhile I'll bate it all out in me mind."

She bent down and straightened the furrows in his forehead with the tips of her fingers and kissed him and then whistled to the wistful Michael, and together they went running down the street toward the little patch of green where the children played and among whom Michael was a prime favorite.

Sitting, his head in his hands, his eyes staring into the past, O'Connell was facing the second great tragedy of his life.

While O'Connell sat there in that little room in New York trying to decide Peg's fate a man who had played some considerable part in O'Connell's life lay in a splendidly furnished room in a mansion in the west end of London—dying.

Nathaniel Kingsnorth's twenty years of loneliness and desolation were coming to an end. What an empty, arid stretch of time those years seemed to him as he feebly looked back on them!

After the tragedy of his sister's reckless marriage he deserted public life entirely and shut himself away in his country house, except for a few weeks in London occasionally when his presence was required on one or another of the boards of which he was a director.

The Irish estate, which brought about all his misfortunes, he disposed of at a ridiculously low figure. He said he would accept any bid, however small, so that he could sever all connection with the hated village.

From the day of Angela's elopement he neither saw nor wrote to any member of his family.

His other sister, Mrs. Chichester, wrote to him from time to time telling him one time of the birth of a boy, two years later of the advent of a girl.

Kingsnorth did not answer any of her letters.

In no way dismayed Mrs. Chichester continued to write periodically. She wrote him when her son Alaric went to school and also when he went to college. Alaric seemed to absorb most of her interest. He was evidently her favorite child. She wrote more seldom of her daughter, Ethel, and when she did happen to refer to her she dwelt principally on her beauty and her accomplishments. Five years before an envelope in deep mourning came to Kingsnorth, and on opening it he found a letter from his sister acquainting him with the melancholy news that Mr. Chichester had ended a life of usefulness at the English bar and had died, leaving the family quite comfortably off.

Kingsnorth telegraphed his condolences and left instructions for a suitable wreath to be sent to the funeral. But he did not attend it, nor did he at any time express the slightest wish to see his sister, nor did he encourage any suggestion on her part to visit him.

When he was stricken with an illness from which no hope of recovery was held out to him he at once began to put his affairs in order, and his lawyer spent days with him drawing up statements of his last wishes for the disposition of his fortune.

With death stretching out its hand to snatch him from a life he had enjoyed so little his thoughts, colored with the fancies of a tired, sick brain, kept turning constantly to his dead sister Angela.

From time to time down through the years he had a softened, gentle remembrance of her. When the news of her death came, furious and unrelenting as he had been toward her, her passing softened it. Had he known in time he would have insisted on her burial in the Kingsnorth vault. But she had already been interred in New York before the news of her death reached him.

The one bitter hatred of his life had been against the man who had taken his sister in marriage and in so doing had killed all possibility of Kingsnorth succeeding in his political and social aspirations.

He heard vaguely of a daughter.

He took no interest in the news.

Now, however, the remembrance of his treatment of Angela burnt into him. He especially repented of that merciless cable, "You have made your bed; lie in it." It haunted him through the long hours of his slow and painful illness. Had he helped her she might have been alive today, those bitter reflections that ate into him night and day might have been replaced by gentler ones and so make his end the more peaceful.

He thought of Angela's child and wondered if she were like his poor dead sister. The wish to see the child became an obsession with him.

One morning, after a restless, feverish night, he sent for his lawyer and told him to at once institute inquiries—find out if the child was still living and if so where.

This his lawyer did. He located O'Connell in New York through a friend of his in the Irish party and found that the child was living with him in rather poor circumstances. He communicated the result of his inquiries to Kingsnorth. That day a letter was sent to O'Connell asking him to allow his child to visit her dying uncle. O'Connell was to cable at Kingsnorth's expense, and if he would consent the money for the expenses of the journey would be cabled immediately. The girl was to start at once, as Mr. Kingsnorth had very little longer to live.

When the letter had gone Kingsnorth drew a breath of relief. He longed to see the child. He would have to wait impatiently for the reply. Perhaps the man whom he had hated all his life would refuse his request. If he did—well, he would make some provision in his will for her in memory of his dead sister.

The next day he altered his entire will and made Margaret O'Connell a special legacy. Ten days later a cable came:

I consent to my daughter's visiting you. FRANK OWEN O'CONNELL.

The lawyer cabled at once, making all arrangements through their bankers in New York for Miss O'Connell's journey.

That night Kingsnorth slept without being disturbed. He awoke refreshed in the morning. It was the first kindly action he had done for many years.

How much had he robbed himself of all his life if by doing so little he was repaid so much!

O'Connell had a hard struggle with Peg before she would consent to leave him. She met all his arguments with counter arguments. Nothing would move her for hours.

"Why should I go to a man I have never seen and hate the name of?"

"He's your uncle, Peg."

"It's a fine uncle he's been to me all me life. And it was a grand way he threatened me mother when she was starvin'."

"He wants to do somethin' for ye now, Peg."

"I'll not go to him."

"Now listen, dear; it's little I'll have to live ye when I'm gone," pleaded O'Connell.

"I'll not listen to any talk at all about yer goin'. Yer a great, strong, healthy man—that's what ye are. What are ye talkin' about? What's got into yer head about goin'?"

"The time must come some day, Peg."

"All right. We'll know how to face it when it does. But we're not goin' out all the way to meet it," said Peg resolutely.

THE "ROAD HOUSES" AND "BARREL-HOUSES" WHICH WILL NOT SURROUND "DRY DIXON"

It is the unpleasant duty of this League to check the "gullibility" and "false sentiment" of some of our own dry people.

Gullibility, because some of us lend too ready credence to every silly canard and statement that the opposition puts forth.

For instance, the following are some of the "rumors" that one year ago our good people accepted as Gospel:

The lie, swiftly circulated by men in fast automobiles, the morning of that election, that Sterling's ballot had been thrown out as illegal and that we must vote wet to keep our "trade" from going there.

The "rumors" of towering skyscrapers that would be built on our streets, only in case that Dixon went wet. (Where are those rumors this year, we wonder?)

The "bargain" sacredly made between our Citizens' association and the wets that if the latter would contribute $1,000 to the Shoe Factory Fund and the dries all the rest, the latter would never seek to have a local option fight again; when, in fact, the gentlemen of that association indignantly spurned this contemptible proposition.

The brazen untruth that Dixon's prosperity, its turn in the tide, was due solely to our going back to saloons.

The fool assertion that more liquor was drunk in Dixon than ever. (See this column tomorrow for incontrovertible figures showing that drunkenness and crime have increased in Dixon wet over Dixon dry from 9 to 12 times over.)

The statement that Dixon saloon-keepers, although they could sell and did sell far more liquor in dry Dixon, and made more money than ever, only wanted to have Dixon voted wet again so that their traffic might be more lawful and respectable, rather than more profitable. (Which was the most absurd inconsistency of all.)

The financial gem that licensing saloons meant more money in Dixon for legitimate trade. When, in fact, our license system means merely the burning up of $300,000 of good money to get $14,000, or the playing of $20 into a municipal slot-machine that is so arranged as never to give back more than $1.

And then we have to check our people against false sentiment and foolish courtesy.

As for instance, the notion that we are in some way honor bound to stay licked because we were once licked; to stop the fight on drink because by falsehood and terror the opposition once, without honor to themselves, won from us a victory. We beg to recommend to the warring nations abroad this method of securing peace promptly. Let each regiment fight once only, then quit the loser forever.

The notion that since the wets having won last year in town, the city has no moral right to vote on the proposition now. Out of "courtesy" we should be content with only two dry years since 1859!

We wish that this kind of reasoning had been thought valid when Dixon was dry. What dry citizen then ever found fault with the ethics of the saloon in beginning a campaign to come back again at the very earliest opportunity? What citizen, wet or dry, was heard in that "come-back campaign" to object that it was wrong to "disturb business" by having such an election?

It is odd how some elections will "disturb business" more than others. It does seem to us that a fight that will disturb business in the way it has done in Dixon since this publicity campaign opened is needed oftener. There hasn't been a drunk seen on the streets, there hasn't been an arrest of any subjects, there hasn't been a Sterling deputation arrive (having been quietly warned to keep home and lie low for a few days) and the stores have had a chance again to cash pay-checks on Saturday nights. Hardly a merchant last Saturday evening was able to cash the checks offered, so numerous were they.

But while we are shouting "courtesy" to the saloons they are debauching our boys and making fresh model-husbands for our Dixon girls.

What We Mean To Do.

We confess to having no quack nostrum for miraculously taking away instantaneously the appetite for drink in a confirmed inebriate.

We only claim to have a sure way of keeping boys from becoming inebriates. Our hope is, saving the rising, not the departing generation. We would, if we could, cure of his passion the hapless victim of the saloon, who would drink hair-oil if he thought it contained alcohol. But we cannot. We do not know how.

But we do know what would make the youth of the land like this poor, pitiable inebriate, and we do know that it would be accomplished in 99 per cent of the cases by the banishment of the legalized saloon, whose fuel and food boys certainly are.

What is there in this program to "disturb business" when we propose merely to remove our greatest source of economic waste and conserve the boys to become the future wage earners, producers, and money-spenders of our community?

Boys Not Made Drunkards in Barrel Houses.

Boys and young men do not learn to drink, except in the rarest cases, in hidden-away blind-pigs and abandoned slaughter-houses which have been converted into "barrel-houses" or "wholesale houses." Like moths drawn to their deaths in the flame, so our youth are drawn to their ruin by the glitter, lights, palatial furnishings and crowds of the open saloon, located on our principal streets, holding up their heads under the proud assurance of municipal respectability guaranteed for $1200 per annum.

Let the boy go to that sort of school once and the time will soon come when it will be the drink, and not the glitter that draws him. The pomp and magnificence of the saloon soon come to mean nothing to the sot who would drink from the gutter, if he could not get it otherwise.

The barrel-house is not for the bum, not the young boy first setting his feet on the downward path.

Mothers and Fathers of Dixon, do not be afraid that your boy will ever learn to drink in a shack hidden away outside the city limits of a dry Dixon with a hundredth part the facility that he will in the present saloon housed in magnificence on our city streets.

Will We Have Such Barrel-Houses?

At the very outset of this campaign the liquor people endeavored to frighten our good people with the "buga-boo" assertion that in case Dixon went dry it would immediately be fringed with fine saloons and busy wholesale houses selling liquor in enormous quantities, and what would be most unpardonable of all, paying no license to our city.

Possibly some timid people actually have believed this absurd announcement. If so, let us show you your mistake.

Why Does Not Sterling Have Barrel-Houses?

Here is an easy way to smash this buga-boo. Find out whether Sterling-Rock Falls, a dry community of 14,000 people (more than we have), is fringed with this ring of mammoth and prosperous drink dispensaries. If such institutions will certainly follow a dry election then they must certainly have sprung up about Sterling-Rock Falls this past year. We do not have to go far to find out for ourselves whether this threat has any truth back of it.

For fear that you will prefer to believe such slush to going down to Sterling to find out for yourselves we have brought the proof to you. We have taken an expert photographer down there and made a hunt for the "Fringe." For a long time we could find no one who knew where it was. Some had heard that it was appropriately housed in one, single, abandoned slaughter-house. But this proved to be an injustice to the slaughter-house.

WE WILL THEN HAVE NO SALOONS JUST OUTSIDE THE CITY. No Barrel-Houses About Dixon.

Second. The fear as to these is

We finally, after much search, found IT. And here it is:

DRY STERLING-ROCK FALLS' MAMMOTH WET FRINGE.

From reading that First Wet Declaration we had in our mind's eye seen an almost solid line of Palatial Drink Emporiums, Encircling our Fair City, pierced only by Wet Rock River, springing up by Magic the day after Dixon is voted Dry.

But we have seen what Wet Magic did in the Wilds south of Rock Falls, down by a Muddy Creek, also Wet, in the way of a Wet Fringe when our Neighbors at the Big Wet Dam down the River, went Dry.

Nearly two miles south of Rock Falls, by the roadside and by a creek (handy for cleaning up) we found the Dreaded Wet Fringe.

And now you see it above. Though the view was taken on a "business day" this week, it was closed. No crowds of men and boys hung about it, fighting to get their thirst allayed. It was a mere shipping station for distribution of booze to wet Dixon and other communities, and bore the sign of the Rock Island Brewing Company.

Why Doesn't Sterling Patronize This Place?

Sterling and Rock Falls are now dry (and glad of it) but why, if these saloons and barrel-houses do indeed spring up all about a dry city, do the people who are bibulously inclined down there come to Dixon and Harmon and Amboy to get their alcoholic encouragement?

The Answer.

Because the Barrel-house and the Wholesale House are a delusion and a snare and an economic failure.

This is because the Law surrounds their conduct with so many difficulties and conditions that they cannot be made to pay.

There is nothing in the law to prevent any person who pays a small tax to the United States from opening up just outside of the city limits of Dixon today, even before we vote on the subject, such Barrel Houses, and ringing us in with such a fringe.

Why then pay $1200 a year license to the city, pay sky-high rents, maintain at vast expense elaborate and beautiful fixtures and furnishings when a shack like the one shown above (which is only a portable house) could be used just outside the city limits instead, at small rent and by payment of only $50 a year to Uncle Sam?

Simply because it would not pay.

The one shown above, located two miles from Rock Falls does not pay. The States Attorney tells us that it has not to exceed sixty patrons; that no liquor can be drunk on the premises, hence it is always quiet; that as required by law no sales are made there except in five gallon lots.

The Conditions That Make a Wet Fringe Impossible.

First. No saloon can be established in Dixon township, outside of the city, and none will be. Because to do so A MAJORITY OF ALL THE MEN AND WOMEN IN THE WHOLE TOWNSHIP WOULD HAVE TO PETITION to the Board of Supervisors to grant saloon licenses there, and then the SUPERVISORS WOULD HAVE TO GRANT SUCH LICENSES.

Our people would never sign such a petition, for while many persons will secretly vote for them very few will openly petition for them. We will at our own expense print their names publicly if they do. Nor will anybody petition for a saloon, if the license will go to the county and not to Dixon.

WE WILL THEN HAVE NO SALOONS JUST OUTSIDE THE CITY. No Barrel-Houses About Dixon.

Second. The fear as to these is equally nonsensical. We will see no costly buildings go up for the alleviation of thirst. It is within the bounds of imagination to conceive of a mate to the Sterling lonesome, of like portable character, handy to be moved by two days when "trade" petered out, being located in the woods behind the Cement Factory, and doing no injury except to the Balkan Peoples up there who might be seeking some strong beverage to cut the cement from their throats.

But no American Citizen would think of patronizing such an institution, we prefer to believe. If so, why do STERLING PEOPLE COME HERE FOR LIQUOR, INSTEAD OF GOING TO THEIR OWN BARREL-HOUSE? We anxiously await the answer. Why do they each spend sixty cents on Saturday evenings for inter-urban fare out of the $1.00 or $1.50 they have saved during the week for booze, when of the Wet Declaration is true they could get 60 cents more of drink at their own Home Place? Why waste that much good money on car fare which might be spent for beer and whiskey?

The Reasons, As Found In Dram Shop Act.

REASON 1. The Act of 1887 provided that no one "shall, outside of the limits of any incorporated city * * * by himself or another, * * * directly or indirectly, sell, barter or exchange * * * any intoxicating liquors of any kind in any less quantity than five gallons and in the original package as put up by the manufacturer" under very heavy penalties, either fine or imprisonment or both.

The sort of folks that come up from Sterling, at an economic waste to them of 60 cents each, do so because they cannot raise money enough to BUY FIVE GALLONS EVERY TIME THEY WANT A DRINK.

We are informed that while nothing of value is received still that five gallons of either beer or whiskey costs a lot of real money.

The Sterling bunch does not have it.

Neither will the Dixon inveterate drinkers.

REASON 2. Sec. 2 of the Dram Shop Act provides that no intoxicating liquors shall be sold by any person, "in any quantity to be drunk upon the premises, or in or upon any adjacent room, building, yard, premises or place of public resort."

Therefore he who buys his five gallons at such a resort, before he can slake his raging thirst must get out of the barrel-house, off the premises, off the adjacent premises, and as held by the courts of a sister state under a like statute, get clear out of sight of the barrel-house.

No wonder the boys who can't wait have to come to Dixon, at the expense of neglecting their own Home Institution.

REASON 3. The Law again, in further restriction of the beloved personal liberty of the drinker, will not permit the proprietor, agent or servant of the seller to deliver his five gallons of drink at the buyer's house, barn or shed in Dry Dixon.

If one wants it he must go with a wheelbarrow, buggy, wagon, auto or foot prepared to carry it away himself. To carry anything as heavy as five gallons of liquor by hand until one gets clear out of sight of the drink emporium would, of course be out of the question.

Therefore, cast away your fear of the awful Wet Fringe. Dixon Dry will never see it.

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

IF CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED, GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Mother can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrup. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

The Following Statement Should Form Conclusive Proof of Merit to Every Dixon Reader.

Could stronger proof of the merit of any remedy be desired than the statements of grateful endorser who say their confidence has been undiminished by lapse of time? These are the kind of statements that are appearing constantly in your local papers for Doan's Kidney Pills. They are twice-told and confirmed with new enthusiasm. Can any reader doubt the following. It's from a Dixon resident:
B. A. Worley, blacksmith, Peoria Ave., Dixon, says: "The action of my kidneys was irregular and annoying and my back ached. After using Doan's Kidney Pills, the pains left my back and my kidneys became regular in action." (Statement given May 21st, 1912.)
Over two years later, Mr. Worley said: "Whenever my back gets lame and sore and needs a kidney medicine, I use Doan's Kidney Pills, and they give me relief."

USE MILITIA TO SHUT BARS NEW DRY PLAN

Prohis Call on Governor to Enforce Illinois Sunday Law.

Chicago, April 15.—A radical move against Sunday saloons in Chicago is being planned by the Chicago Law and Order league, the Anti-Saloon league and other reform organizations.

The plan, which is being guarded with the utmost secrecy, is said to be nothing more or less than to demand of Governor Dunne that he, as chief executive of the state, compel all saloons not only in Chicago but throughout Illinois to close their places of business on Sunday. Refusal to obey the governor is to be met with a demand that he enforce the law and his orders with the aid of the state militia.

All efforts to induce Arthur Burrage Farwell and those associated with him in the fight against saloons to make public the secret plans they admit are under consideration failed.
Then came reports about the city hall of the scheme to put the whole matter directly up to the governor.

Strength was given the report by statements made by prohibition leaders who were in session during the morning at the Hotel La Salle. They admitted they had discussed informally a plan to put the whole matter up to the governor and to have him call on the militia to enforce the law governing the closing of saloons on Sunday.
